1 The Dispute Resolution Board

The Dispute Resolution Board Panel (“DRB”) is established pursuant to per section B.19.6.3 of the Trading & Settlement Code (T&SC) (the “Code”), which can be viewed on the SEMO website here.

The following is a guide intended to assist who may need to seek resolution of a dispute. The rules relating to dispute resolution are those set out in the Code including Agreed Procedure 14 here. For the avoidance of doubt, in the event of any conflict or inconsistency between the following and the Code, the Code shall prevail. Whilst this guide is intended to assist persons using it, it is not intended to be a substitute for the rules set out in the Code.

1.1 Definition of “Dispute”

Paragraph B.19.1.1 of the Code states, a “Dispute” means any claim, dispute or difference of whatever nature between any of the Parties howsoever arising under, out of or in relation to the Code or the Framework Agreement (including the existence or validity of the same) in respect of which (a) one Party has served a Notice of Dispute, or (b) a Dispute is deemed to arise under paragraph G.3.2.15 following a Settlement Query.

Paragraph B.19.3.3 states: In the event that the Market Operator does not resolve a Settlement Query within the timeframe set out in paragraph G.3.2.15, the Settlement Query shall automatically become a Dispute and the Notice of Dispute shall be deemed to have been issued on the date on which the Market Operator was required to issue a resolution in respect of the Settlement Query.

1.2 Objectives of the Dispute Resolution Process

According to paragraph B.19.5.1 of the Code, it is intended that the Dispute Resolution Process set out in or implemented in compliance with the Code should to the extent possible:

- be simple, quick and inexpensive;
- preserve or enhance the relationship between the Disputing Parties;
- resolve and allow for the continuing and proper operation of the Code having regard to the Code Objectives;
- resolve Disputes on an equitable basis in accordance with the provisions of the Code having regard to the Code Objectives;
- take account of the skills and knowledge that are required for the relevant procedure; and
- encourage resolution of Disputes without formal legal representation or reliance on legal procedures.

1.3 Stages of the Dispute Resolution Process

The Dispute Resolution Process is set out in Section B.19 (‘Dispute Resolution’) of the Code, including Agreed Procedure 14 which is available here.

2 Appointment of the Dispute Resolution Board

The Disputing Parties enter into a contract with the Panel Members directly rather than with the Market Operator. The form of Dispute Resolution Agreement is contained in Appendix B of the Trading and Settlement Code.

Paragraph B.19.6.8 states; where there are no more than two Disputing Parties, the Disputing Parties may agree within 10 Working Days of date of receipt by the receiving Party of the Referral Notice to establish a sole member DRB or a three member DRB.

If the Disputing Parties to a Dispute agree to establish a sole member DRB, they shall agree to appoint the sole DRB member within a further 5 Working Days.

If the Disputing Parties agree on a three member DRB, then each Disputing Party will within a further period of 5 Working Days nominate one member of the Panel to the DRB and the two members so nominated will appoint the third member within a further period of 5 Working Days.

Each Disputing Party shall promptly notify the chairperson of the Panel of the identity of any member of the DRB that it has agreed with the other Disputing Party and/ or nominated

In the event the Disputing Parties do not within the relevant period notify the chairperson of the Panel of their agreement on:

- (a) the number of members of the DRB; or
- (b) having agreed a sole member DRB, the identity of the sole member, then, the chairperson of the Panel will within a further period of 10 Working Days determine the number of members of the DRB and appoint the appropriate number from the Panel, or in the case of the appointment of a sole member DRB, appoint the sole member from the Panel. In making any such determination and appointment, the chairperson will take account of the complexity of the Dispute as set out in the Notice of Dispute and the range of issues which may be relevant.

Acceptance of the appointment will be subject to the availability of Panel members at the time a Dispute arises. There is no compulsion on Parties to nominate a particular member to the DRB. Similarly, there is no compulsion on a member to accept a nomination Paragraph B.19.7.1 provides that in the event any member of a DRB declines to act or is unable to act as a result of death, disability, incapacity, resignation or termination of appointment, the chairperson of the Panel or, where the chairperson of the Panel is the member affected, the vice - chairperson of the Panel shall appoint a replacement within 5 Working Days of notification of the relevant event. Such appointment shall be final and binding.

Paragraph B.19.7.2 states that the appointment of any member of the DRB may be terminated by unanimous agreement of the Disputing Parties. Should this occur, paragraph B.19.7.1 shall apply.

2.1 Dispute Resolution Panel

Paragraph B.19.6.7 states: “The Panel shall include suitably qualified experts from relevant disciplines who:

1. are experienced in and familiar with alternative dispute resolution procedures which do not involve litigation; and/or
2. have an understanding of the electricity industry or have the ability quickly to acquire such an understanding.”

Members of any DRB appointed shall be independent of any Disputing Party to any Dispute on which they are called to deliberate.

Per Paragraph B.19.6.4 of the Code, the Regulatory Authorities have nominated Joe Behan as Chairperson of the Dispute Resolution Panel.

2.2 Costs

Subject to paragraphs 0 and B.19.8.3, the default position for any Dispute is that each Disputing Party shall be responsible for paying an equal share of the costs of the DRB in respect of the Dispute involving them and shall bear its own costs of the procedure.

There are no fixed fees or published rates for Members of a DRB, who are entitled to set their own rates for any Dispute on which they are called to deliberate.

The DRB may make a decision as to the award of costs in any Dispute which decision shall be binding on the Disputing Parties.

Where the Market Operator does not resolve a Settlement Query within the timeframe set out in paragraph G.3.2.15, the Code provides that the Market Operator shall be liable for all costs in connection with a Dispute arising by operation of paragraph B.19.3.3.
